A New Season

By Nina Keegan

We had just had our first “cold” spell of the season in Houston. Having been born and raised near Chicago, I found it quite amusing that the temperature falling to the high 60's (15C) was considered to be a cold snap. Everyone it seemed, could not get enough of the faint, cool, breezes that crooned through the trees. The crisp, new, chilly, autumn air unearthed an enthusiasm and a “get up and go” attitude that had been missing for quite some time.

What is it about a simple change in weather that can bring out the best in people? It's almost like each new season is a new beginning of sorts. It's very representation of newness stirs up changes in our souls. Autumn visions of our favorite warm cozy jersey; rich hot cocoa (or coffee & rusks) spring into action in our hearts.

The Bible also references new changes and beginnings in our lives as being seasons. Seasons are metaphors for God's perfect timing in delivering us through all the changes He makes in our lives. These certain seasons can bring about the blessings we reap from having been obedient in following him through those changes even if we did not fully understand or welcome them.

“And let us not grow weary of doing good, for in due season we will reap, if we do not give up.” Galatians 6:9. This scripture tells us to never give up. No matter how long, strenuous and painstaking the road or trials are in our lives, there is always a new season ahead, a season of new beginnings.

Every day we can make the decision to begin again. We can adopt a positive mindset to overcome, conquer, and live triumphantly. All beginnings must eventually come to an end so a new beginning, a new season, can commence. We need to take the opportunity to look ahead at what can be and forget the what-might-have-beens. We can challenge ourselves to be better, live higher, rise above our own self-appointed limitations. We can look ahead to a new season of thinking, speaking, acting and living more positively. Each subtle change we implement towards living a more positive life will eventually take root and manifest itself into our days, weeks, months and years.

A beautiful tree full of wonderful green foliage and rich, ripened fruit can offer shelter, nourishment, and shade, but only temporarily. The leaves eventually turn brilliant hues of crimsons, golds, reds and oranges, offering us a wonderful spectacle to behold, a brushstroke of genius only God can artfully paint. Then, those leaves must fall, leaving that beautiful tree bare and vulnerable as it must survive the harshest of seasons. The tree must go through that season to begin a new life, a new cycle, with budding blossoms fragrant and beautiful.

“He is like a tree planted by streams of water that yields its fruit in its season, and its leaf does not wither. In all that he does, he prospers.”

Psalm 1:3. We need to be incessantly grateful and thank God continually even when our future seems very unclear. We can still stay firmly planted in faith so we will never wither; but always prosper and produce good fruit.

All glory comes then from daring to begin, daring to change, ushering in each new season, and forever trusting God with each unpredictable new step. Never stop believing and growing. We can never fully know what God's intentions are for us, but we can always do our absolute best with where He has placed us right now. Only then, when we have learned all there is to learn and are truly grateful in this place, this season, will God move us to a new, more bountiful, and blessed season.

“For everything there is a season and a time for every purpose under heaven.”

Ecclesiastes 3:1

Francis – The joy of the Lord is my strength.

After a long day of varsity; The YW is my safe haven. It is a place where you can be yourself and grow, sharing daily with other young women. We are well fed and there is an incredible sense of being at home in our house. The YW is a fantastic place to live and I have been happy to extend my stay for a second year.

Francis Botha.

The YW has been my home, I have no other family to go to or place to stay.

My studies this year, will be at Hillsong Internship 2nd year. I plan to be working with an organisation A2I (anti human trafficking) and stay on as a full time volunteer. I will also be overseeing our 'Miss Sisterhood' at youth (a project that involves sharing God's love with girls and teaching them about their value and purpose in Christ) and I am a youth and fuel leader (GR7-9). I believe God has confirmed this year the path that He has chosen for me to follow. I had a difficult year in 2014, it was honestly the most challenging year of my life, testing me in every area, especially finances. My struggles were in places where I just wanted to give up, where situations seemed hopeless; but God has been sovereign all the time and has provided for every need.

I cannot deny the calling He has placed on my life and the heart I have for those coming out of abusive situations. I will fight to the bone for freedom, I will fight to see young people come to know our Saviour and find their purpose and value in Jesus.

In 2014 I was able to do this because I had a wonderful home at the Y and they provided for my needs. The support from The YW staff was encouraging and I thank you with all I have. It is with a humble heart that I enter 2015 with The YW as my home, and step into Missions.

To The YW Team & Lovely Ladies

Thank you so much for blessing me with your love & fellowship. I'm leaving forever changed by the friendship

God has enriched my life with. You all taught me so much about what a godly family looks like. You helped to show me what it means to love and support others as Jesus did in the precious Bible. I pray God's favour & blessings over each and every one of you. In my heart I am sad to leave here, this has been the first real home I've ever had. I leave with a joyful heart and a BIG SMILE knowing that I'll see you all again. Thank you for bringing me closer to Jesus. YAY GOD

Peace & Joy Forever,
Kelly xoxo

Kelly and Joel became engaged – Kelly had been a model for American Swiss – now serving at Bushveld Mission. We Praise God for your life and testimony.

From one of our Moms 2015

Hi Ladies - A very big thank you for your kind hospitality in February when I stayed with you to settle Jessi into life in the big city. You were all so friendly and welcoming. Many, many thanks and God bless you in 2015. You were right - the course at The Animation School is a tough one.

Brian & I have been encouraged as we minister at the YW in Cape Town.

Days can be long with many challenges but the door of opportunity is awesome, and God is at work in every area of our lives. Young lives, entering a career in the BIG City of Cape Town. Mom's and dad's wondering how their daughters are going to cope!

Braai time at the YW

"We" as The YW team, are able to ensure a safe haven, a home for students to spread their wings, learning how to travel within the City, adjust to new learning environments, as well as getting to meet new friends. We have regular get-togethers on Tuesday evenings, planning fun times: hiking on a Saturday, a Red Bus ride out of the City to Hout Bay and watching the sun go down with a picnic meal. A games evening always brings screams of delight as we enjoy the challenges and laugh out loud when we do the silly things girls do together.

The YW 2015 – Young Ladies

Our meals, made by our two cooks, Siya and Tilly, are always enjoyed by many hungry tummies and desserts are a treat. Our house team: Heathia, Alice, Annie and Joshline all assist in every way to make our house, our home. Sharon keeps us responsible through reception duties and Merlon makes sure all the pennies add up. Distone ensures a beautiful garden is there for us to enjoy, and we are so thankful for our pool on the hot summer evenings. Jay-Jay keeps our maintenance issues all fully functional. Thank you to a great team.

Don't forget our Prayer Partners and Committee – thank you to each one, it's because of you we see God at work in all our lives.

Dave & Marion Pallant: 1984 to 2014

Dave & Marion are a special couple who have served The YW Cape Town for many years. We honour them and continuously give God thanks for their lives and the mentorship they have given to us over the years. Marion lived at The YW in Zimbabwe (Bromley House) from the age of 18yrs and married Dave Pallant, their wedding taking place from the YW. Dave & Marion have served The YW over a period of nearly 30yrs.

Dave & Marion Pallant now Life Members of The YW.

Twelve years as the Managers of the Cape Town YW and then Dave as a Trust Board member and Marion as the Local President and Committee member. A willing heart and a love for our Lord Jesus Christ that bears testimony in their lives for God's glory.

Philippians 1:3-6

"I thank God every time I remember you. And I always pray for all of you with joy. I thank God for the help you gave me while I told people the Good News. You helped from the first day you believed until now. I am sure that the good work God began in you will continue until He completes it on the day when Jesus Christ comes again."

Finally, there are those mission orientated projects we become involved in, helping others as they serve. Packing shoe boxes and Easter packets for children homes, cupcakes for the homeless - these all bring a brightness into our lives as we care for others.

PIETERMARITZBURG

STARTING A NEW YEAR :

Change is guaranteed. Although the majority of girls at The YW Pietermaritzburg this year were “returnees” we also had a crop of “newbies” to add to the family. The settling in period was very quick, perhaps because lectures on campus were interrupted for two weeks due to demonstrations, giving the young ladies time to get to know one another. The “returnees” particularly, were quite frustrated during this time as they knew that the hours would have to be made up somewhere.

Everything has now settled into a rhythm, the tempo of which alters according to pressure of work, but mostly it is a happy, contented and positive tune.

MEET SOME OF THE NEWBIES :

SHAMILA MPINGA –
(Third year LLB student)
MY YW EXPERIENCE

Feelings of inadequacy cluttered my mind when I realised that the time had come for me to move into The YW Christian Residence. As a Muslim I realised that I had risked coming to an unfamiliar place with the possibility of having no one to relate to. By then I had reconciled myself with the fact that a roof over my head and sheer convenience were my reasons for moving to The YW. Living here would merely be a means to an end (a means to obtaining my LLB degree).

Much to my surprise, I could barely conceal a smile when Uncle Fred and Aunt Penny welcomed me on my arrival and showered me with YW paraphernalia (the mug, calendar and flower pen). What further eased my transition were the wonderful housemates I was placed with.

It truly mesmerises me how management ensures that The YW functions with efficacy in maintenance as well as organising social events (the welcome braai and Valentine’s movie night) that are always a success. What I value most is the parental role taken by Aunt Penny with her nurturing instincts that are gradually becoming well known to me and although time has scribbled lines on his face and has furrowed the tales of age in his brow, Uncle Fred’s humour is spellbinding and brightens even the gloomiest of days.

Despite feeling somewhat comfortable among the people who are now akin to family, I still felt anxious about attending Bible Studies. Instead of the indoctrination and propaganda that I expected, the cell group engages in dialogue on a relatable platform which I actually find insightful and stimulating. To further my interpersonal skills, The YW also introduced me to the homework project at the orphanage. Participation in this project is rewarding and absolutely humbles me.

Moving to The YW has broadened my perspective on many aspects of life and has created an unstoppable evolution within myself. I am unable to express enough gratitude to God for having placed me in an environment so close to home. I am certain that my experience here will continue to be a pleasant one, rich in spirit and substance – essentially an end in itself.

FLAME-LILLY CHIVENGE
(Zimbabwean – 2nd Year Lib)

Coming so far away from home, I did not know what to expect when I came to The YW. I thought it would just be accommodation, that I would be homesick all the time and I that I would always be lonely. However, I have learned that one can never feel lonely in the midst of good company. I soon realised that home is not a place but a person. Home is about who surrounds you and not the walls that shield you during the night. The people around you need to be homely for one to feel at home and that is how I feel about being at The YW. If the people are homely it is difficult to not feel at home. I enjoy the activities that we have here, the girls here have been very welcoming and I believe I have made friends and sisters for life.

Aunt Penny and Uncle Fred are not just managers to me – they are like parents. I find myself talking about them a lot to the people back home. They are caring and supportive and their hospitality has immensely helped with my settling in. It is true that the environment that you live in contributes to one’s success. I believe that The YW provides one such environment. It provides an environment for academic growth, personal growth and spiritual growth, and these are pillars of success.

One can never feel alone at The YW. It has certainly become a place I can call home.

SINDISWA FIPHAZA

(2nd year LLB)

My name is Sindiswa Fipha and at the beginning of 2015 I joined "The YW" – Christian Residences for Young Women, based in Pietermaritzburg. It was all a matter of God's plan taking over my own, to be honest. Having completed my first year of study, I realised that I needed to find a lifestyle that was more accommodating of my studies, but had not considered the thought of leaving home. However, when God presented me with the opportunity (and at such a beautiful place) I took it happily. My first impression of The YW was that it was exactly what I needed and a little more!

The first few days were filled with homesickness and uncertainty because it was my first experience of living away from home, but I found encouragement in knowing that everything in my life is part of God's plan. On one of the first few weeks we had a braai at The YW where I got a chance to meet all of the girls at The YW, as well as the young men and women who come in on Mondays and Tuesdays to help with the Connect groups. What stuck out for me at the braai was how welcoming everyone was, which helped me to settle in with a bit more ease. Soon afterwards the Monday Connect Group began. Here we discuss topics in relation to young people's relationship with God, that are scarcely discussed so open-mindedly and with so much elaboration; such that I think I speak on behalf of everyone when I say that these discussions have helped us to grow spiritually and have taught us a lot about what it means to know God.

On Wednesdays I've joined a group of the girls who go with Auntie Penny to visit an orphanage and help the children there with their homework. These visits have created memories: of us leaving the orphanage with hearts humbled by the experience and sometimes in laughter because of the humour we find in the children considering the fact that we've had to remind ourselves of how we were required to do our work at primary school level.

Altogether, my experience at The YW so far has been happy, sufficient for my needs and has taught me about what different personality types can teach you about the many aspects of life.

NOMPILO MCHUNU

(1st year Bachelor of Business Administration).

When I left home I was so scared and nervous because I didn't know what to expect in coming to The YW. Fortunately The YW is a breath of fresh air - a really nice, calm place and a very good learning environment.

The YW has its own life lessons that we learn day in and day out. You get to interact with people from different backgrounds and eventually it feels as if you're this one big happy family with our Lord God at the centre of it all.

'Our home away from home' thanks to our wonderful parents, Malume Fred and Auntie P, who do so much and expect so little from us.

...AND THE NEW MONDAY AND TUESDAY NIGHT LEADERS

FAITH MILUMBA

I consider myself a South African Zambian. My parents immigrated here years back and it has been like home ever since.

I am currently doing my third year in law and I won't lie, I cannot WAIT to be done!

I lead the Tuesday Night Connect Group which is mixed with boys and girls from outside The YW. God is on such a mission to capture the hearts of His daughters at the Y and my heart is that each and every girl who steps out knows the unrelenting love that their Dad in heaven wants to pour out on them.

It has been such an epic journey so far, Uncle Fred and Auntie Penny have made leading such a smooth ride for me (I promise I am not sucking up, I know the struggles of leading a Connect with little to no help). They provide such an amazing support structure for my Connect and I am sure for all the girls at the Y.

The girls are absolutely awesome and they have such a hunger for God, they constantly challenge and grow me and I am so keen for what God is doing in all our hearts through Connect. God is going to use Tuesday Connect, a small match, to start a BLAZING fire that will consume campus with such a passion for God! I honestly can't wait.... WATCH THIS SPACE!!!

MAFYNN BUTHELEZI :

(leads Monday Night Connect with Tumie)

"Are you a blueberry or choc-chip muffin?" has become the opening line for every new encounter. My name is Mafynn (pronounced Maffin). I am an optometrist working in Pietermaritzburg. I was born in Empangeni and my family relocated to Pietermaritzburg in 2001. I am a paternal twin with three older sisters and an Auntie to the most precious little boy!

I THINK I am a carefree person but my friends would disagree – according to them I live a scheduled life – so I'd like to think I fall somewhere in between. I love keeping active (on most days) and generally lead a healthy lifestyle but with the influence of not so health-conscious friends it has become a bit of a struggle.

I have had quite an interesting journey with my faith which I cannot dive into with a restriction of half a page but the gist of it is this : I was born into a Christian family and grew up in the church (Lutheran). Like most kids in such families you attend church every Sunday, Sunday School and are taught certain values about God and church.

Him. I started attending Youth at NCF in Grade 11 when a friend invited me. After several invitations I eventually decided to attend. My life was never the same. I got saved. I started going to Connect Group Meetings (it was called "çell" back then) and my relationship with Christ grew.

The Christian walk is not easy and this is partly why I think I have such a huge heart for women's ministry. I believe God has a role for women in the church and I want to be part of building women and young ladies to walk in God's purpose for us. God's work and the passion in some of the girls hearts is awe-inspiring. I fully believe that strong and passionate women are being brought up at The YW and that these women will develop an even greater yearning for Christ and will walk and talk with all the favour of radical Christians.

Being in this journey at The YW has been such a pleasure thus far – Uncle Fred and Auntie Penny are the best, the best, the best Cassper Nyovest! Having never led a connect group I think we are lucky to have an amazing support system as this. It has been such a privilege being part of The Y family, I hope that the relationships built in this time will last for years to come!

ABOUT TUMIE (so weird writing about oneself but hey.....)

I am a pure bred Xhosa girl, Asindile Mqulo (lovely name, right?) but everyone calls me Tumie. I hale from the majestic Eastern Cape in all its beauty #recognise, Umtata is the hometown, a very small town. I am 22 years of age, doing a Bachelor of Science degree with Hydrology and Geography majors, but in all honesty my passion lies in policy and development. Ow, but I have an even bigger passion for Jesus. If it were up to me I would travel around the country with a group of friends and just evangelise. I enjoy sharing my passion for Jesus and am forever in awe of what He is doing. I lead the Monday Connect Group with Mafynn and it has been such an amazing yet nerve-wracking experience, a learning curve. I literally feel like a baby figuring things out, but the beauty of this picture is that I am the baby carried by Jesus, He does it all and has done it all really.

I am very privileged to have led a Connect Group for the first time at the YW, where there are Uncle Fred and Auntie Penny. Leading the girls as a team makes such a difference and they invest so much in those girls it is amazing. In a world where society is concerned about raising strong men to lead, here are Uncle Fred and Auntie Penny raising sound minded young women, me included (whoop, whoop). I hope you get this picture. [lq][nw.

All teachings at home were Bible based but I never really had a relationship or felt the need to build a relationship with Jesus until my late high school years. We were never really taught the value of salvation, grace or knowing Jesus and not just about

God has exceeded my expectations – He is taking my love for leading girls to a whole new level, it is so enlightening, especially for me. I have never been intentional about girls until now and it is so encouraging to see them warm up to us. God is planting a seed that will grow into a fruitful tree in all these girls, and it is not for us to be discouraged because He knows the length of time for the growth season. In Psalm 1 the word says a tree that is in Christ bears fruit at the right time, and this is what I have faith for with the girls at The YW. Jesus will show the world flames through each and every girl, I tell you.

... AND CATCH UP WITH SOME "OLDIES"

It is always sad to say goodbye to our girls with whom we have shared so much BUT it is bittersweet because they are going off on a new stage of their lives. We thought it would be good to let you catch up with some of them and see how they are faring.

Ayanda (on the right) having lunch with Nokwe Ntshingila (a past YW resident).

My name is Ayanda Mthethwa (24) and I have FINALLY completed my honours degrees in Bachelors of Art and Psychology. Though it's great to be back home, I terribly miss The YW 'vibes' and my Maritzburg parents, Fred & Penny Hammond. The YW had been an amazing home for the past five years and I have met wonderful diverse friends.

Ecc. 3:1-10. This year I am employed as a Visual and Creative Art educator at Port Shepstone High School (by Grace). The experience has been astonishing, overwhelming and discipline is becoming less of an issue. I must admit I was not the best learner back in the days now I know what my teachers had to go through! I am now finding my feet and very fortunate the school is run on Christian principles.

I have always had a strong desire to inspire the youth through Visual Art and God has placed me on the perfect platform.

I Tim. 4:12 As one of the youngest educators, I also strive to portray good morals and Christian ethics to the learners. When I think of all the opportunities and achievements I've been granted, I'm always reminded of God's favour, love and mercy.

Wishing the YW family a blessed year. Thank you for still sending me birthday wishes LOL.

MINKE WITTEVEEN

Today I sit in the office in Nature's Valley thinking back over the past two years since I left the relative safety and comfort of my shared house at The YW PMB for the unknown life in Plettenberg Bay to undertake my MSc in Conservation Biology through UCT.

There have been highs and lows, and twists and turns in the journey of life and self-discovery but I am still standing tall, mostly.

I am currently waiting to hear back from my MSc examiners, hopefully with good news! Over the past two years I have published four papers, and have another two in press. I finally did my open water scuba-diving course, and am busy with my advanced course; the reefs in Plett are truly remarkable! I have swum with Cape Fur Seals, more than once, and been poo-ed on and dived bombed by Kelp Gulls, also more than once! This year is a gap year of sorts, I am working part-time at Nature's Valley Trust, and in my spare time preparing for my next great move (currently unknown), with plans to finish up my advance scuba course, my skippers course, and my boat-based whale watching course; idle hands and all that.

We only live once, and I gather experiences like others might cost money; I want to see, touch, smell, taste, and do as much as I can with the time I have, and I want to encourage others to do the same.

(Minke has since learnt that she was awarded her Masters Degree, with distinctions – whoop whoop!!).

NOMSA CHIBAMBO : Steps towards my destiny By Nomsa Chibambo

On the 22nd of March 2015 it was made official - I was appointed the Youth Pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Church in Pietermaritzburg! Wow!

Growing up in a Christian home one would make the assumption that the kids are born with a Bible in their hands and half the Bible memorised, or something like that. Well that's somewhat true...well sort of, kind of. I gave my life to Christ at a very young age and ever since grew up following the example set by my parents. My Dad being an evangelist with African Enterprise and my Mom doing her tertiary studies in theology. I grew up knowing right from wrong and how "a Christian girl should...". However, being the middle child, during my high school years of finding myself, "middle child syndrome" got the best of me and my relationship with God. It became like a message in the sand blown by the wind, it faded. But through the grace of God, He found me, brought me back home and in His arms I have found all the serenity and love I ever needed. Pure bliss.

Being Youth Pastor is easier said than done. It has only been a few months but to be honest it's been challenging. I am so grateful for the support I have received from my family, the Pastor, Rev Alan Bester and various other church members and friends. I am seriously loving every moment and although still learning how to juggle my school work and my responsibilities at church, I know that I have a Rock I can lean on when the storms of this world start to get rough (Psalm 61:2)

This being my final year of undergraduate study I am certain that God has great things planned for my life and I'm holding tight as He leads me to greener pastures.

INDAWU YETHEMBA CHRISTMAS PARTY

Because the girls leave in November after their exams we threw a Christmas Party for the kids at the orphanage in October last year. The girls contributed towards and purchased and wrapped presents for each child. The children were a bit overwhelmed at first as they were not aware that we were coming, but soon got involved in some rowdy Praise and Worship. This was followed by present opening, then came an enormous lunch and for those who could walk, which happened to be all the kids, there were games.

IN MEMORIAM

Two great friends of the YW went to be with Jesus recently..

A dear friend and prayer partner, Aunty Trixie Lind, passed away in Howick in December and Eddie Kidgell, a previous trustee of the Pietermaritzburg YW and husband of the Pietermaritzburg YW President, Merle Kidgell, died in Johannesburg.

We are grateful for the lives of these precious people and rejoice that they are with the Lord, but remember their families as they mourn their passing.

BLOEMFONTEIN

We started the year with 20 residents and welcomed eight new ladies into our home this year.

We had our first official House Meeting in February when all our ladies were present.

They were asked to introduce themselves, to say where they were from and what they were studying. Each resident was given her new YW mug and we all enjoyed an evening of discussion and questions and answers.

The lightning blew the receiver on the electric gate motor as well as the night switch and the TV in the residents lounge. All have now been repaired or replaced – but what a night!!

We extend a warm welcome to all our new residents - we are blessed to have you as part of The YW family. We are also delighted to have our 'old' residents join us again this year. We pray that our Lord Jesus will bless each one of you during your stay at the Bloem Y.

The happy couple

On the 14th February we were host to a special wedding for a former prison inmate. Our Local Association President, Eileen Ndewere, is part of the Prison Ministry of Christian Revival Church (CRC) here in Bloemfontein and she arranged that we hold a small informal wedding reception for the couple – the bride had waited 18 years for her groom to be released! We were very privileged to be a part of their special day.

Great fun was had when we enjoyed watermelon one evening, and then, on the 10th March, we had a severe thunderstorm.
